

The International Jew's Harp Society (IJHS)

The International Jew's Harp Society (IJHS) is a non-profit organisation established at the 3rd International Jew's Harp Festival and Congress in 1998 in Molln/Austria, with the aim of bringing together as many of the enthusiasts for the instrument as possible.

The International Jew's Harp Society is a globally acknowledged authority that reflects and represents the ancient and diverse traditions, the colourfulness and the future of the jew's harp. Our Society is a global organisation that functions as an umbrella for players, researchers, makers, enthusiasts, and dedicated festivals.

Not only does the IJHS initiate and co-organize international festivals and congresses involving players and scholars from around the globe, but it also publishes a recognized journal, a blog, and a magazine-style newsletter titled BOING.

Why join?

Because Membership allows you to be part of the international jew's harp community, of the first and only IJHS – the leading authority in

- Jew's harp heritage
- Promotion and preservation of production & playing traditions
- Dissemination of knowledge
- Lobbying and networking

You get

- Access to the Journal via the IJHS Website
- Access to back issues of the Newsletter
- Privileged member-access to certain parts of the Website
- A voice in decision-taking processes within the IJHS: vote for and/or become member of the board and/or the Program Committee for IJHFs; vote for or receive an award
- Receive lobbying and promotion-material for own/national purpose.

We need your input to gather content for publication in the IJHS Journal, our blog, the newsletter BOING, our social media channels (Facebook and Instagram), and PDF publications for our virtual library.

The Journal includes key articles dealing with...

- Historical research
- Ethnomusicology
- Technical and playing information
- Festival reviews
